In three cases, KVP personnel were discharged with the order to report to the recruiting district headquarters nearest to their home town in Saxony; the personnel involved were then assigned to a unit stationed near Forst Zinna in the vicinity of Justerbog. An officer who was discharged and returned to Wolgast was also recruited again after a short time. The morale of the KVP units improved after the completion of the discharge operation. Breaches of discipline have ceased. ³

1. [REDACTED] Comment. The AAA range at Altwarp is used by almost all KVP AAA units. No independent AAA unit is stationed in Pinnow. It is therefore believed that the unit from Pinnow observed in the Altwarp area was comprised of the AA machine gun units of the 1st Inf Regt of Division Prenzlau. Beside the AAA range of Division Eggesin which is permanently stationed in Altwarp and whose commanding officer is Major Boerner, elements of the mortar regiment of the same division were temporarily stationed at Altwarp. The new KVP unit whose arrival was expected may either be a component unit of this mortar regiment or an AAA unit which is to rotate to the Altwarp area for firing practices.

2. [REDACTED] Comment. The guns observed probably belong to the howitzer artillery regiment of Division Eggesin.

3. [REDACTED] Comment. Unit Weiss is identical with the Mechanized Division Eggesin. The reported number of discharged KVP personnel is far below the quota of discharges reported from other KVP units. The intention probably was not to weaken to much this special unit. It is believed that some of the discharges did not rejoin the KVP but were incorporated into the general police. No definite information is available from other KVP units that the morale of KVP personnel improved after the completion of the discharge operation.

4. [REDACTED] Comment. The artillery, AT gun and tank ranges are in the Jaegerbrueck area. [REDACTED]
